HomeSphere-IQ® Enterprise makes rebate validation easier than ever.

Invoice Review, a core feature of the platform, allows building product manufacturers to validate builder product usage quickly and confidently in one place, while tracking builder buying behavior to gauge a builder's loyalty to your brand.

At-a-glance, here are some of the most powerful features of Invoice Review:

Validate Builder Claims in Invoice Review

View current and past invoices in one spot.

• Open, manage and complete builder claim reviews without diving into a long chain of emails.

• Maintain an easy-to-find record of financial communications that are time-stamped for compliance.

• Keep your sales and financial teams in sync and on top of builder business.
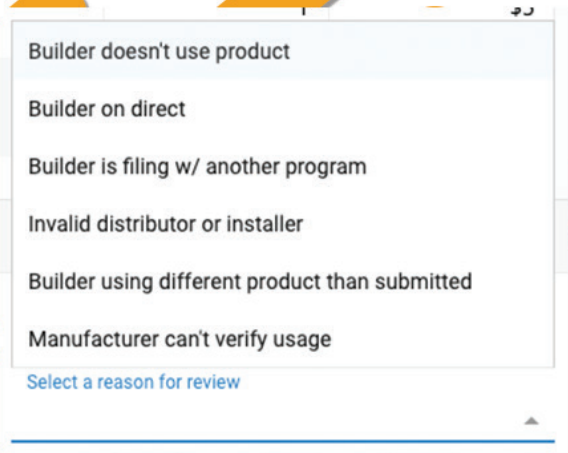

Customer Retention in Invoice Review

Uncover builder history and buying behavior with the lifetime value of builder.

• Use data-driven insights to retain, upsell and cross-sell the builder long-term.

• See previously obscured supply chain information and study buyer behavior including where the builder or trade purchased your product as well as the home address where your product was installed.

• Gain visibility into the number of years the builder has been using your product and your share of the builder's business.

Resolve Discrepancies in Invoice Review

Start a review of a claim and communicate in one spot to resolve the issue.

• Resolve claim discrepancies with a simple review process where you're able to choose from a variety of issues to dispute a claim you believe is inaccurate.

• Work with HomeSphere's team to quickly resolve the issue so you can close the review and move forward with the home builder.
